COMMANDING YOUR POKÉMON

Make a Command Roll to direct your Pokémon in action. Spend a Hope to add an applicable Pokémon Experience to the roll. On a success with Hope, if your next action builds on their success, you gain advantage on the roll.

Range: Melee | Close | Far

When you command your Pokémon to attack, they gain any benefits that would normally only apply to you. On a success, their damage roll uses your Proficiency and their damage die.

STRESS

Stress:

When your Pokémon takes any damage, they mark a Stress. When they mark their last Stress, they drop out of the scene (by hiding, fleeing, or a similar action). They remain unavailable until the start of your next long rest, where they return with 1 Stress cleared. When you choose a downtime move that clears Stress on yourself, your Pokémon clears an equal number of Stress.

TRAINING

- When your Pokémon levels up, choose one option and mark it.
- ☐ ☐ Sharp: Your Pokémon gains a permanent +1 bonus to a Pokémon Experience of your choice.
- ☐ Spark: Use this as an additional Hope slot your trainer can mark.
- ☐ Affectionate: Once per rest, when you take a quiet moment to bond with your Pokémon, gain a Hope or you can both clear a Stress.
- ☐ Tough: When your Pokémon takes damage, you can mark one of your Luck slots instead of marking one of their Stress.
- ☐ ☐ Fierce: Increase your Pokémon's damage dice or range by one step (d6 to d8, Melee to Close, etc.).
- ☐ ☐ Enduring: Your Pokémon gains an additional Stress slot.
- ☐ Unbreakable: Once per long rest, when damage would mark your last HP and your Pokémon is within Close range, they rush to your side and take the damage instead.
- ☐ Agile: Your Pokémon gains a permanent +2 bonus to their Evasion.
- ☐ Attuned: Your Pokémon draws one additional domain card from one of their type
